Bears, berries and fun at the Forts

VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

Bears and berries were both in abundance at Fort George and Buckingham House Provincial Historic Site on Saturday, as an excellent crowd took part in the site's first major event of the season.

Fueled with barbecued elk burgers and mouth-watering slices of Saskatoon pie topped with ice cream, youngsters lined up to make plaster casts of their handprints beside bear and bison tracks, coloured special t-shirts for their teddies, disguised themselves with temporary body art and decorated sacks for the berry picking expedition.

Then it was off on a hike down the trail to the original Fort George site, where everyone scrambled to find hidden packages of candy 'berries' among the markings indicating where the buildings of the 1792 fort had stood. When the last berries were in the bags,

BEAR SIGHTING -
A large and friendly bear came ambling down the trail to the clearing where Teddy Bears' Picnic participants were enjoying a story.

the action moved across the trail to a clearing for story-time, where everyone was surprised by the arrival of a friendly bear, who joined in on a game of 'Bear! Bear! Berries!' before everyone sat down to enjoy a picnic snack.

Bylaws dominate town council agenda

VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

It took two meetings, but the Town of Elk Point's two borrowing bylaws are finally in place, allowing the town to re-finance short term debt and pay out the loan guarantee for the Chamber of Commerce EcoCentre, cover the cost of the treated water storage facility and develop 14 more lots in the Centennial Subdivision. One bylaw was passed at last Monday night's regular meeting, but due to an incorrect date, the second bylaw had to wait for the second publication of the corrected advertisement and was given its final readings at a special meeting on Wednesday. Each of the bylaws allowed the town to borrow $1.75 million for a 10-year period. A resolution to borrow the funds was also passed at the special meeting.

Three other bylaws were also on Monday's agenda. The first gave final readings to a bylaw allowing the rezoning of a lot that had been changed from commercial to Medium Density Residential (R2) when the town updated the land use map in 2006. It has now been returned to Central Commercial (C1) and will be used as a parking lot.

Another was a proposed taxi bylaw, which council will have the opportunity to study and give their input on before action is taken to approve it.

The final bylaw, in conjunction with its counterpart passed July 8 by the County of St. Paul No. 19, was given all three readings and established the Family and Community Support Services Board of the County of St. Paul and Town of Elk Point. Effective Aug. 1, that board will consist of the seven members previously appointed by County Council, one elected official from the Town of Elk Point and one member at large appointed by Elk Point Town Council. The county's representation will drop to five members, two elected and three at large, after their October 2015 organizational meeting. Coun. Bernice Capjack will represent the town on the new board and Denise Bjorkman will be the member at large from Elk Point. Bjorkman is the chair of the existing Elk Point FCSS Board, which will be dissolved on July 31. The members of that board will receive letters thanking them for their service to the community.

Council also approved the FCSS Service Agreement with the county.

Support for broomball

Town council has sent a letter of support to the County of St. Paul regarding the county's application for a grant under the Makeadiff Grassroots Community Sport Innovation Challenge to purchase broomball equipment for a program in schools across the county.

Elk Point Airport

Council passed a resolution adding a sentence to the motion approved at the last meeting indicating that the province would be required to provide funding for deficiencies within three to five years. Integrated Airport Systems Ltd. has indicated that they would be willing to provide an estimate at no cost or obligation, prior to the town's meeting with Alberta Transportation regarding the sale of the airport. County council has already passed a motion to go ahead with the study, with neither municipality or the airport operating authority to be held responsible for the cost of the study.

MuniCorr golf tournament

Up to three representatives of the Town of Elk Point were approved to take part in the Aug. 10 North East MuniCorr Golf Tournament in Cold Lake. They will also contribute some prizes for the tournament.

Building permit deposits

It has been pointed out to council that the town currently does not have a policy on returning building permit deposits once all inspections and reports are successfully completed. Council directed the administration to draft a suitable policy.

Forts

Other special activities included an informative talk by the site's program coordinator Ross Stromberg about the bears one might see in the area, who introduced visitors to a very special bear, a tiny, 89-year-old hand-made bear that was given to the late Roy Scott as a newborn, days after his mother brought him home from the hospital.

Scott's bear was also part of a display of hand-crafted bears loaned for the occasion by Pat Swedgan and Scott's wife, Marjorie.

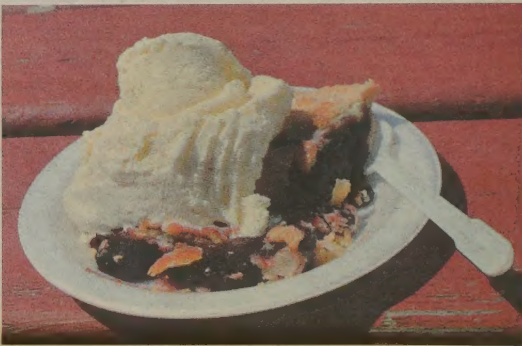

The next major event at the Forts will be Bushcraft 1792 on Saturday, Aug. 29, where visitors will have the opportunity to learn skills that the trappers and traders of more than 200 years ago needed to survive in the wilderness.

The site is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Labour Day. This week's visitors will include the youngsters from Elk Point Municipal Library's Summer Reading Program.

TASTE TREAT - Mouth-watering saskatoon pie was a special treat enjoyed by many of Saturday's visitors to the Bears and Berries Festival.

TINY TREASURE - Ross Stromberg introduces the crowd to a tiny handmade teddy given to the late Roy Scott as a newborn, 89 years ago.

Census 2015

The final report is in, and Elk Point has a total population of 1,646 as of June 30, 2015. This figure will now be submitted to Municipal Affairs. The town's population affects the amount of Municipal Sustainability Initiative (MSI) and federal gas tax grants the town receives.

Storm water retention

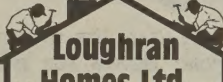

A letter has been delivered to residents in the Centennial Subdivision regarding the construction of a drainage ditch that will later become a full storm water management facility. The construction of the ditch will require removal of a portion of the trees to the west of the subdivision. These measures are being taken to prevent flooding of homes in that area in the case of a major rainfall.

Job description

The job description for Town of Elk Point FCSS director received council's approval on a temporary basis, although there is no person in that position at this point and the department will be changed to a joint county and town department on Aug. 1.

Park safely

It is generally considered that the main hazard of parallel parking is when the vehicle is backing out into the driving lane, but let's remember to be safe when pulling into a parallel parking space. In some areas, the sidewalk is almost level with the street surface, and doesn't automatically remind you to 'stop here.' Please be cautious. Those pedestrians on that sidewalk and the businesses on the other side deserve to be safe.

RECREATION CORNER

Fair countdown

JENA COLBOURNE
Recreation Director

All the sunshine and heat makes me really thankful we have the splash park, seeing kids laughing and playing in there all day is a real joy for the town. Make good use of it, we only have six weeks left of summer vacation.

Right in the middle of summer holidays, as it is every year, the Elk Point Horticulture and Craft Show will be held at the arena. You still have lots of time to get your brochures, which are available for download from the town's website, elkpoint.ca. In the brochures you'll see there's hundreds of different entries you could put in the fair. Everything from photography to sewing to fresh fruit to flowers to Christmas crafts to canning. Really, there are lots of exhibits that can be entered, which means lots of prizes to be won. Cash prizes are awarded in each category. You can also pick up your brochure and tags at the Elk Point Review.

Each year my kids enter their crafts that they made at school and a few short stories that they did as projects throughout the year. They print off a couple pictures they snapped and sketch a few drawings and usually come home with $50 or more! It's a great way to show kids that their creative side matters.

You can even bring in items from your garden, like that huge zucchini that's been growing out back. Maybe friends have always said your blueberry pie is the best, bake one up and bring it down - P.S. Can I judge the baking categories?

The Ag Society would tell me "No", because they get in professional judges. These judges travel around Alberta and attend fairs just like this one. They know what they're doing and if they crown you the victor you should be very proud.

There will also be sections available for local artists and vendors. If you've been working on some art and want a great platform to showcase your talents, this event is for you. Maybe you have a home based business and you're looking for exposure and to get your name and company out there, book a table at the fair and the audience will come to you.

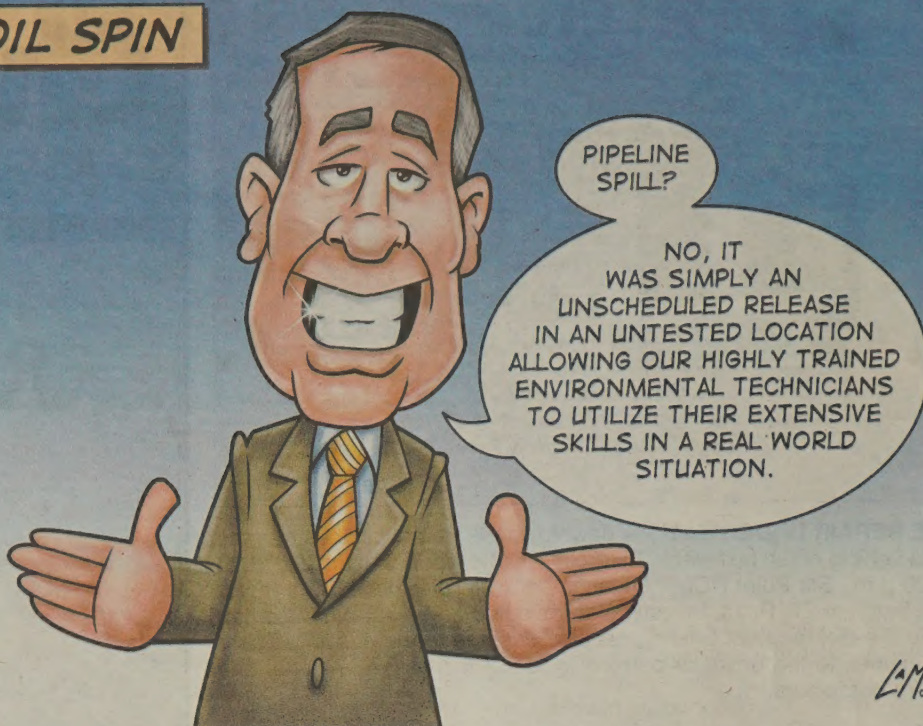

The fair also has plenty of quilts on display. You can enter your quilt into the fair or hang it in the 'just for show' display. Be proud of what you've made and bring it down to the fair.

For exhibitors, drop-off is Aug. 8, from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. at the back door of the arena. Prizes will be awarded Aug. 9 at 4 p.m. The fair will be open to the public on Sunday, Aug 9 from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

For contest rules, regulations, times, fees, and prizes you can go online to elkpoint.ca or if the internet isn't your thing, call Donna Bassett at 780-724-4375.

For all the quilters and quilting enthusiasts out there, there is a bus trip being planned for September 12 to Northlands in Edmonton for their giant Quilt Show. You can email recreation@elkpoint.ca to reserve your spot. There will also be a sign up sheet at the fair if you would like to learn more about the trip and sign up there.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Saddle Slickers, wild horses and campground crackdown

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF JULY 21 IN...

1985

Work was well underway on Elk Point's new senior citizens' lodge at the west end of 50th Avenue, while a new business block on the avenue's east end was nearing completion. Heinsburg held a gigantic reunion for those who attended school in that community between 1933 and 1960, with that end date determined by the limited size of facilities available for the event, and the school's first teacher, Harold White, on hand to reminisce about the early days of the area.

1990

Elk Point Saddle Slickers shone at the district 4-H horse show, with Tanya Kenyon winning the Grand Champion and High Point Senior awards, Matthew Veer the Reserve Champion and High Point Junior and Pam Veer the Peewee award. Showers were too scattered and crop prospects were very poor across the area due to the lack of soil moisture.

1995

Tullibie Lake came home - four old-time cowboys leading a parade that included a herd of 150 wild horses, Joe Brind's chuckwagon and outriders, a 15-wagon train with 96 horseback riders and two buggies, and all - for the launch of the community's two-volume history book, "Trails North of the Saskatchewan." Brind's was not the only chuckwagon making news that weekend, as Buddy Bensmiller won the Calgary Stampede aggregate award and lost the $50,000 Rangeland Derby championship heat to Ward Willard by 3/100 of a second in a photo finish.

2000

It took over a year for the Northern Lights Library

System to make a decision on its new home, but the board of trustees finally voted to stay in Elk Point and to accept the offer of the Pan Canadian building as the site of its headquarters. The final count was in and the Elk Point Emergency Services Committee had a total of $13,138.47 in proceeds from their charity golf tournament to present to STARS Air Ambulance.

More campsites at the recreation park, walking trails with access to the Iron Horse Trail and benches around town for seniors were the priorities for the Town of Elk Point's Sponsorship 2005 funding. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce debated the best site to locate the vintage train station they hoped to use as an information centre, with the first site, near Highway 41, having insufficient ground elevation and the original station site having large trees.

2010

The Town of Elk Point laid down the law for campground use, with updated fees and regulations, including a maximum stay of 14 days, maximum of two motor vehicles, recreational vehicles, tents and trailers per campsite. Ninety-three-year-old Kathleen Coulter claimed her second Saskatoon Pie Bake-off win at the Fort George and Buckingham House Saskatoon Festival, where Levina Yaceyko won the dessert and preserve contests.

Parks Day celebrates Canada's natural wonders

JANANI WHITFIELD
Review Staff

The day was bright and the smiles were equally so as visitors from across Alberta converged on Ross Lake this past Saturday, enjoying clear waters, blue skies and being part of a nationwide celebration of Parks Day.

Across Canada, people were invited to visit provincial and national parks and take part in festivities, while in Ross Lake, people from as far as Edmonton and Edam, or just up the road in Elk Point, came out to enjoy this particular wonder of the province.

Lead park ranger of Whitney Lakes Provincial Park Jacques Talbot said he thought that the time had come to hold the first Parks Day in at least a decade at the local provincial park.

"We'd love to get the word out there about the beautiful resource that Albertans have on their doorsteps, about their provincial parks," said Talbot, adding that provincial parks are "very accessible to all kinds of campers," from the first-timers to the grizzled veterans of the outdoors.

In his time at Whitney Lakes Provincial Park, Talbot has seen various people come out, including a couple from the UK that had been living in Elk Point for four or five years before visiting the lakes. They had been amazed to visit, said Talbot, explaining, "They had no idea this was here."

Then there are locals who come back to the lake years down the road, and share reminiscences about how the lake used to look or what used to happen there, such as swimming lessons that were held 20 or 30 years ago, said Talbot. He says the rangers look forward to this just as much, to learn about the history of the parks.

BANNER DAY - Visitors who gathered for Parks Day in Ross Lake this past Saturday were all smiles as they held up a banner for a group photo.

Parks Day organizers put out hot dogs, cake and drinks, and people enjoyed horseshoe games, an interpretative table featuring taxidermy, face painting, banner painting and giveaways.

The afternoon ended with a bang, as Talbot explained the various piñatas hanging at different levels would be the "finale" of the day.

"That's like the fireworks - I can't wait to see the kids go to town on them."

Bensmiller a 'new era of racing'

JENA COLBOURNE
Special to the Review

Many in the World Professional Chuckwagon Association (WPCA) circuit are calling Kurt Bensmiller the new era of racing. Coming off his second consecutive Calgary Stampede win, it's safe to say there's a new face of the chucks and that belongs to Kurt.

I spoke with Kurt the day after his second Calgary Stampede win on July 13th, 2015. One thing I've always noticed about the driver is his cool demeanour and quick-on-the-draw wit. When asked if he was still shaking from the win, Bensmiller gave me a resounding, "No." The champion said he was ready for home, "it's time to pack up and get home for the first time since June."

Home for Kurt and his wife Ashly, along with their three daughters, Harlee, Hayze, and Vahn, is Dewberry, Alberta. Kurt is a third generation chuckwagon driver; it's really a family business. His father is retired driver Buddy Bensmiller, affectionately known in the circuit as "The Dewberry Rocket". Buddy retired in 2013 after a career that saw him as a two-time World Champion Chuckwagon Driver, a three-time Calgary Stampede Rangeland Derby Champion driver and a three-time Calgary Stampede Aggregate winner. Kurt's grandfathers, Allen Smith and Alan Bensmiller were both multi-time finalists, as well.

Then there's his brothers, both older brother David and younger brother Chance are drivers. Dave has been outriding as of late and actually was one of the outriders Kurt's brother-in-law, Vern Nolin's, outfit this year at the Stampede. Incidentally, Vern ended up in the final four Dash-for-Cash against Kurt, which Kurt says there were no hard feelings, "Vern congratulated me after, which was nice."

As for that Dash-for-Cash, many including myself may boast they knew Kurt had it from the clean figure eight around the barrels or even that first turn, Kurt says he was a little more reluctant to call the win. "Just because of the weather I had a good feeling coming from the bottom," Kurt explains it was when he saw his outrider later down the track it dawned on him he had the race, "going around the third and fourth turn when I saw where the outriders were and the outfit still had a lot of gas left, I knew for sure, for sure that it didn't matter what the track was like, them guys weren't going to be able to catch me."

WPCA insiders call Kurt the new era of racing, even with 15 years' experience in the WPCA under his hat. Kurt grew up on the circuit and has had plenty of experience before his rookie year in 2000, including witnessing the classic Bensmiller-Sutherland rivalry between his father Buddy and patriarch of the Sutherland family, Kelly. Kurt says even "King Kelly" didn't deter his spirits going into the race. "It didn't really bother me that it was Kelly, I would've treated it like anyone else."

The WPCA will be enjoying a much-needed break July 13 to 23rd, and then they are set to hit the track in Bonnyville, Alberta. Kurt says he's most looking forward to getting home. "It's been a busy 16 or 17 days, so it will be nice to get back home and relax a little bit." Kurt may have to do some renovations when he gets home, he jokes about saving the big novelty $100 000 cheque he was presented with at The Calgary Stampede. Although he doesn't have a trophy room yet, "It's looking like I may need one," says Kurt with a chuckle.

Kurt says he's hoping for a win in Bonnyville, "I didn't miss it by much last year and it would be pretty cool to win that one for George." Referring to George Normand, a decorated driver who died tragically in 1994, the races in Bonnyville serve as a memorial for the "Bonnyville Bullet." The WPCA will be in Bonnyville from July 23 -26, with races Thursday through Saturday at 6:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

World Series of Minor Ball is here!

Be careful what you wish for.... you just might get it! The Bantam AA Sox coaching staff wanted to make it up to Tier 3 this year. That's a jump up two tiers from last year's Bantam Sox Tier 5 team. Some of the boys who played peewee last year were in Tier 4. The Sox just barely squeaked into the Tier 3 after winning two games the first weekend in July and losing all four games last weekend, but the two teams, Drayton Valley and Red Deer, had the same record of two wins and four losses and were moved down because the Sox had defeated them, therefore the Sox are in Tier 3 but the very bottom placed team and will be facing the first place team, Calgary, in the first game this coming weekend in Calgary. That's the way the draw works, first against sixth, but there's nothing wrong with being the underdog, in fact sometimes it can be in your favor because it takes the pressure of winning off. It's not the first time the Sox have come into a tournament in last place and done really well, in fact we won our first gold that way and more than once since then. So, this week we work on some batting and pitching and fine tuning the fielding at practice, then load up the gear - the World Series of minor ball is finally here!

The Bantam Sox had applied to host once again this year but Calgary was awarded it, maybe because they had never hosted before, I don't really know for sure. As of press time Sunday night it was still not determined where or who would be hosting our Peewee Sox tournament, or what tier our boys they would be in. They still had games this past weekend before the final could be completed, so who knows, when they announced it yesterday maybe we are hosting a peewee AA tournament. Great, if that's the case: We have a terrific facility to do the finals and super volunteers.

This past weekend the Peewee Provincial AA team traveled to Spruce Grove to finish off their last round robin, losing both games, the first one very close against Barrhead, 22 to 18, after a huge comeback in the fifth inning where the boys rallied, scoring 11 runs to tie the game, only to lose a heartbreaker because of a time limit. Doesn't seem right to me,

Review Sports

but I guess the umpires called the game..I know I wouldn't be happy, I like to play until the final out, regardless of time. The second game the boys lost by the mercy rule, so they have work to do... a few good practices this week for them too!!

Now for the Campbell quote of the week. "I think the mark of a great player is to be confident in tough situations." Last week's answer to: "Home run hitters strike out a lot." - Reggie Jackson.
